Dear Ralph,

I just received a practically illegible long-hand letter from Percy Schramm in Göttingen. He tells me that while clearing his desk and his study he came across "Royal Funeral Ceremony". He felt guilty for probably not having thanked you, and for by now having lost your address—or, he writes is that a sign that I may have thanked him nevertheless? At any rate, he asked me to convey his thanks to you and added very flattering remarks: that he was surprised at how much new material Professor Giesey was able to offer in his really competent study, not to mention the testimonies of works of art. Do remind me to show you his letter when you visit me on April 3.

No other news since the day before yesterday when I wrote my last note to you.

Love,
EKa. [Signed]
